TIBET AND INDIA.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINE TO LHASA.

SIMLA, August 9.
On the completion of the telegraph line to Lhasa the Dalai Lama sent an inaugural message to the Viceroy tendering greetings to the King Emperor and the Viceroy, cordially thanking the Government of India for its assistance in connection with the construction, and fervently hoping that the line may serve to cement the permanent bond already existing in the friendship of the two countries and that it will increase trade between them. The Viceroy cordially replied.

ITALIAN POLITICS.

SIGNOR FACTA'S NEW TEAM.

ROME, August 9.
In the Chamber Signor Facta said that the new Cabinet had the same constitution and policy as its predecessor. The budget must be balanced by a strict reduction of expenditure. The Government was determined to stop all forms of violence. The State alone had the right to intervene. He emphasised the necessity for measures of reconstruction in Europe. The problems of reparations and inter-allied debts could not be separated. His final appeal for a vote of confidence evoked prolonged cheers from all parts except the extreme left.

U.S. AIR FORCE.

BIG SCHEME ANNOUNCED.

NEW YORK, August 9.
According to the Philadelphia Public Leader the army and navy experts have drawn up a joint report to Congress recommending that a thousand aeroplanes be provided for the United States army in addition to 250 for the navy. The army machines will be divided equally between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with reserves at strategic positions inland. The report estimates that 2600 officers and forty thousand men will be required to man this air force.

A detachment of Persian troops attacked near Sarkhun by tribesmen was forced to retreat with heavy casualties.

SOCIAL REVOLUTIONARIES SENTENCED.

RIGA, August 10.
Other sentences imposed by the Moscow High Court on social revolutionaries ranged from ten to three years' imprisonment.

LONDON REPARATIONS PARLEY.

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY.

LONDON, August 9.
Difficulties in connection with the reparations conference which early this afternoon it was feared might lead to a breakdown have been revealed. A French source states that Mr. Lloyd George at a meeting with M. Poincare and M. Theunis in the morning agreed to the following French proposals.
Firstly, the reparations commission directly to collect 20 per cent on sums received by Germany in foreign currency or on German exports which is estimated to yield 1,250 million gold marks, secondly, seizure of the German customs receipts, estimated at three hundred million gold marks; thirdly, control of the state mines in the Ruhr and the forests on the left bank of the Rhine.

The British Government is strenuously opposing the proposal to re-establish the Rhine customs barrier and to establish a customs barrier round the Ruhr in regard to which M. Poincare is unbending.

NO MEETING YESTERDAY.

LONDON, August 9.
Contrary to arrangement the allied conference is not meeting to-day in consequence of the protracted discussions of the expert committee not concluding.

EXCHANGE MARKET NERVOUS.

LONDON, August 9.
The foreign-exchange market is nervous, fearing a breakdown of the Downing Street conference. Marks depreciated two hundred, closing at 3,800.

CABINET MINISTERS RECALLED.

LATER.
Holidaying members of the Cabinet are being summoned post-haste from abroad and Scotland for a cabinet meeting to-morrow afternoon to consider the serious situation created by the fact that no agreement is in sight in regard to the conference. It is stated that grave decisions have to be taken, settling definitely what policy the country is to follow. It is learned that the Government consider unsound the policy to make a moratorium dependent upon conditions which will destroy the productivity of Germany. The French report that Mr. Lloyd George agreed to the seizure of the German customs receipts is denied while the question of the control of the state mines in the Ruhr and the forests of the Rhineland is still being considered.

THE EXPERTS' REPORT.

LONDON, August 9.
The report of the experts has been handed in. The Belgians agreed with the French regarding the control of mines and forests but all the allies are against the French on all other points. The majority of the committee, came to the conclusion that M. Poincare's proposed productive guarantees would produce no extra cash whatever from Germany.

The Italians and Japanese agreed with the British that control of state mines and forests would not produce cash and was useless except as a sanction. All of the allies except France agreed that the establishment of a customs line between the occupied area and the rest of Germany and a customs line round the Ruhr were undesirable expressing the opinion that there would be no real moratorium if it simply imposed equally onerous forms of payment instead of the present forms.

FRANCE'S LONELY FURROW.

All except France felt that should the necessity of any such guarantee arise it would be much simpler to take over the normal German customs. All except France likewise opposed the taking over of a sixty per cent share in the dye and other factories on the left bank of the Rhine, expressing the opinion that it would produce no cash whatever while the German Government would have to buy out the proprietors with fresh paper money thus aggravating the currency situation. There will be no formal meeting of the conference till Friday morning. Meanwhile the French as well as the British cabinet will meet to consider the situation.

U. S. COAL STRIKE.

PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT.

CLEVELAND, August 9.
The union leaders have virtually decided to conclude a settlement of the bituminous coal strike with the operators from Ohio, Pennsylvania, India, and Illinois. Many other operators are also ready to negotiate on the basis of any agreement reached.

GORDON BONNETT BALLOON RACE.

NEVER NEGLECT A WOUND OR SORE.

NEGLECT of even the tiniest break in the skin leaves the way open for dangerous and invisible germs to set up blood-poisoning and disease. When that happens there is no telling how harmful the consequences may be—an amputated finger, a crippled hand, even death.

The safest plan is to always keep a box of Zam-Buk handy, and immediately dress every cut, scratch, or other skin injury with this unique herbal balm. By this means complications are prevented and healthy healing assured.

Owing to its purity and herbal composition, Zam-Buk has a power for destroying and repelling skin disease which no ordinary ointment can possibly have. In addition to special soothing and pain-killing qualities, Zam-Buk has very powerful antiseptic germicidal properties, which are a blessing in its medicinal action that after thoroughly purifying a wound or sore, Zam-Buk heals the place by stimulating the growth of healthy new skin.

SIR HENRY WILSON.

A STATELY BURIAL.

INTERNATIONAL SORROW.

In the presence of a vast congregation the remains of Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson were yesterday afternoon laid to rest in the "Field-Marshal's Corner" of St. Paul's Cathedral, which is the sepulchre of some of Britain's greatest warriors says the London Daily Telegraph of June 27.

The worshippers at the solemn service were mainly men with whom the soldier and patriot worked, and the composition of the congregation was the finest tribute to a life spent in the country's service.

It was not Britons alone who mourned that murderers had robbed the Empire of an illustrious son. France sent the greatest of the Allied generals to pay homage and respect to a beloved companion in arms, and the fighting forces of the other Allies were worthily represented. In the Cathedral Ambassadors of the Great powers assembled to show their sympathy and sorrow.

The funeral was not only national, but international in character. The stately procession, on its way from the house of the Field-Marshal, passed through streets densely packed with reverent, sorrowing multitudes. In the Cathedral the public had its representation of necessity a small one, because of the demands of those who had the right to attend in an official capacity had first to be met and they formed such a numerous body that the space that could be allotted to non-ticket holders was not large. As it was, when the doors had been opened for a minute or two there was no room for more, and if in the public portion one heard the remark that others could have been accommodated to have admitted them would have meant encroaching upon the corridors along which specially invited worshippers had to pass. Rarely has a congregation been compelled to so long before the hour fixed for service. The Prime Minister and the other members of the Cabinet were in their seats a full hour before the draped coffin was carried in at the West door.

DEPUTATIONS FROM OVERSEAS.

When the band of the Irish Guards began to play an admirably chosen selection of music, the nave and the vast area beneath the dome were quite filled, save for the front seats on either side of the elevated bier on which the coffin was to rest, and the other chairs reserved for mourners and the officers of high rank who were in the procession. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George, the Earl of Balfour, Mr. and Mrs. Austen Chamberlain, Sir L. Worthington Evans, Sir Alfred Mond, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Churchill, Sir R. Horne, Mr. Short, Sir Hamar Greenwood, and the Speaker of the House of Commons sat in the front seats of the general congregation. The mourning dress of civilians and ladies was relieved by the full dress uniforms of officers of the Navy, Army, and Air Force, whose brilliant orders, decorations, and war medals told of service in the same sphere as the murdered Field-Marshal. The Lord Mayor and Sheriffs were in their official robes, and occupied seats in the choir. Here and there were delegations from regiments and bodies with which Sir Henry Wilson was connected in his active life. The Rifle Brigade, the regiment to which he was gazetted, had a number of officers at the service. The Ulster members of Parliament, many public bodies in Northern Ireland, and the Ulster Special Constabulary were represented, and at the invitation of Lady Wilson twenty Irish loyalist refugees found places beneath the dome. At Lady Wilson's wish they were given seats among those reserved for her husband's nearest friends.

As the congregation filed to their places the Irish Guards band, under its director of music, Lieutenant Hassell, played the large from Dvorak's New World Symphony, Massenet's Meditation from "Thais," the old Irish lament "Savournin Deelish," and the "Londonerry Air," a plaintive melody. Then the organist played a voluntary, and as the last strains were dying away, the tolling of the Cathedral bell indicated the approach of the procession. In a moment or two the poignant music of Chopin's Marche Fugue could be heard, very softly at first, but soon the swelling sounds rolled through the open West door and reverberated in the Cathedral. There was an extraordinary stillness in the interior, for the massed bands, Chopin's triumphant and exquisite note of hope and consolation were wonderfully impressive.

The Cathedral clergy, together with the choir, were waiting at the West entrance to receive the body, and as the coffin was carried in, the organist played a voluntary, and as the last strains were dying away, the tolling of the Cathedral bell indicated the approach of the procession. In a moment or two the poignant music of Chopin's Marche Fugue could be heard, very softly at first, but soon the swelling sounds rolled through the open West door and reverberated in the Cathedral. There was an extraordinary stillness in the interior, for the massed bands, Chopin's triumphant and exquisite note of hope and consolation were wonderfully impressive.

the foot of it was a floral design of the British colours, and the Field-Marshal's plumed hat and sword rested close by Lady Wilson's wreath of palm leaves and roses. When the coffin was placed on the bier, around which were six tall candles, officers bearing Sir Henry Wilson's baton, war medals, and insignia, on seven cushions of crimson and gold, deposited them near the head of the coffin. Lady Wilson had followed the body of her late husband up the nave. The pall-bearers filed past and took their seats on either side of the bier, and then a number of beautiful wreaths were placed at the foot of the coffin by British and foreign officers.

THE KING'S REPRESENTATIVE.

The Duke of Connaught, representing His Majesty the King, walked up the nave with Marshal Foch immediately behind Lady Wilson, and his Royal Highness sat next Colonel Sir Henry Stratfield, representing Queen Alexandra. Many general officers of foreign countries, among whom was General Mordacq, Chief of the Belgian General Staff, representing the King of the Belgians, had seats near Lord Commissioners of the Admiralty, the representatives of the Colonies and Dominions, and the

HONGKONG, THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1932

A WATER SUPPLY SUGGESTION.

It is far from difficult to imagine the weary boredom, the resigned sigh, the scornful pooh-pooh, with which the professional engineer remarks a suggestion in a newspaper bearing on his work. Indeed, so vividly do we envisage it that it is always with extreme reluctance that we venture upon such liberties. A nervous shudder mingles our face at the thought that, like others of breeds without the law, we may be rushing in where angels fear to tread, and complacently suggesting ideas that the authorities have long since thought of, considered, and discarded. In this case we have taken advantage of the wisdom of Tony Vetter, and prepared an alibi. We are ready to swear that we didn't know it was loaded, in case it should go off and hit somebody who ought not to be hit. In short, it is not our suggestion at all, but the suggestion of an intelligent reader over the telephone. He, as the originator of it, could have expressed it so much better than we can, and we are modest enough to believe that a vox populi letter gets more attention than a newspaper leader. Somehow, however, these people fertile in ideas who do take an intelligent interest in public affairs, and even (we are grateful enough to acknowledge) a friendly interest in the China Mail, are strangely shy about writing letters. To ring us up and say "Why don't you suggest . . . ?" or to buttonhole us on the street and tell us how we ought to help in the utmost effort to which their impulse to social service seems to move them. Sometimes, we are well aware, there are reasons of discretion that prevent letter writing. But out here surrender their right to express opinion openly about public matters, in fear of unconstitutional penalties. In some cases no doubt laziness accounts for it . . . But this is a digression that draws us too far from the matter in hand. We were talking of something that just now has a particular interest for us all, namely, our water supply. A reader suggests that a comparatively slight heightening of the Pokfulam Dam would enormously increase the contents of that reservoir, which is used largely for the supply of the Western District. It seems a good idea. If there be no engineering objections that a layman naturally would not know of, it seems to offer a simple and immediately possible improvement, at small cost, without interfering with larger schemes that will no doubt have to be undertaken. Anyway, we have passed it on, or rather, as a footballer throws in the ball from the touchline, we have thrown it in. Let the game proceed.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Amongst the passengers who left the Colony to-day, by the "Empress of Russia" were Messrs. A. E. Crapnell and R. H. Kotewall.

Two Chinese were fined $20 by Commander C.W. Beckwith at the Marine Court this morning for using bright lights during their fishing operations.

Captain F.W. Bakeman of No. 6, Nanking Road, charged a Chinese before Mr. R.E. Lindell this morning with the unlawful possession of a navy blue suit worth $35, which he recognised as part of a quantity of property which was stolen from his house some time ago. Mr. C.H. Lyons appeared for the defence and asked for a remand, and the case was fixed for hearing on Tuesday next.

SUN'S GET AWAY.

LEAVES BY "EMPRESS OF RUSSIA"

BROUGHT HERE ON GUNBOAT.

DESTINATION SHANGHAI.

A British gunboat, her white paint and brass work gleaming, lying in midstream, this morning forms part of the "setting" of a most sensational development in the Canton political arena.

Sun Yat-sen has left Canton. He arrived here on the British gunboat "Moorhen" with a suite of ten persons and boarded the "Empress of Russia."

The party is booked for Shanghai.

REUTER'S REPORT.

Reuter's Canton correspondent wires: Sun Yat-sen left Canton on British gunboat "Moorhen" on the afternoon of August 9. His destination is not announced but is probably Shanghai.

SUN'S SHIPS SURRENDER.

Following Sun Yat-sen's departure from Canton, his warships at Pakmatam have surrendered and joined the "Hoi-tse" and other neutral boats at Bocca Tigris, where they will all be taken over by Admiral Sah Chen-ping, and led up North.

The last of Sun's man-of-war are now reported to have been crushed by Chan Kwong-ming's troops at Heungshan. They were located at Chungmuhau, and heavily defeated. Several hundreds were captured and many killed. Large quantities of rifles, machine-guns and other military equipment were captured.

Large numbers of Sun's out-of-work soldiers, are reported to have returned to their former occupation as bandits and outlaws, and are infesting the smaller villages. One small village called Tsuncho, with a population of about 1,000 men, women and children all told, was invaded by about 1,000 armed soldiers, and looted of everything of value. The soldiers killed about 20 of the male members of the community, and carried away rice, pigs and other live stock, leaving the villagers destitute. The loss sustained by the village is estimated at over $10,000.

REUTER'S VIEW.

SUN "COMPLETELY BROKEN."

A Reuter cable from Shanghai, despatched to-day, says:—Canton's ex-President Sun Yat-sen's waning power in South China has finally been completely broken by the defeat of the army of two of his most powerful supporters, Generals Hsu Chung-chih and Chen Chi-yau at Nanyang and Lochang respectively by General Chen Ching-ming's forces. Chen Ching-ming is now completely master of South China.

"A CHANCE BLOW."

COSTS TEN DOLLARS.

Ip Cheong who yesterday failed to appear before Mr. E. W. Hamilton to answer a summons charging him with assault on a ticket collector of the Taiyat Theatre, Yau-mat, was arrested on a warrant and produced in Court this morning.

The complainant gave evidence corroborating Mr. R. E. A. Webster's opening statement yesterday.

Defendant said that he was accosted by the complainant and several other men who attempted to assault him. In his struggle to get away he landed a chance blow on the complainant's mouth and knocked out two teeth.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $10, and ordered the defendant to pay $10 compensation to the complainant.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT.

REMEDIOS AGAIN REMANDED.

John J. M. Remedios, a Government employee in the office of the Custodian of Enemy Property, who was some time ago bound over by Mr. R. E. Lindell on a charge of embezzlement of $100 belonging to the Government, was again before the Magistrate this morning charged with the embezzlement of three sums of $220 each on May 21, June 28 and July 6, respectively, which represented rent paid by the Police Department to the Custodian of Enemy Property and was received by him by virtue of his employment in the department.

The case was fixed for the 17th inst. for hearing.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SHIP REQUISITIONING DURING THE WAR.

[To the Editor of the "China Mail."]

Sir.—The report of the proceedings in the Legislative Council published in your issue of the 4th instant has afforded an interesting subject for analysis.

The position taken up by the ship owners appears to be as follows:—

(1) In March 1918 the Hongkong Government notified the smaller ship owners of this Colony of its intention to exercise control of those of their ships which were not on the date under Requisition.

(2) The shipowners protested against the control but more particularly against the rates of remuneration offered by this Government.

(3) The smaller ship owners from the first doubted the validity of this Government's action, but took no step to contest the point as they did not wish to hinder the furthering of the interests of the British Empire during the war, and they relied upon receiving fair treatment from the Government.

(4) The smaller shipowners, as a consequence of the control were forced to run their ships at a financial loss, as shown by certified Balance Sheets handed in to this Government, at a time when foreign competitors were enabled to build up huge reserves against the slump in shipping that has since occurred.

(5) The requisition scheme was wound up in March 1919 and showed the substantial profit of $2,231,204.11.

(6) In December 1919, in consequence of this Government not giving the smaller ship owners a reasonable rate of remuneration for use of their ships a test action was commenced by the owners of S.S. "Wollwra."

(7) The smaller ship owners have been in negotiation with this Government and a tentative offer was made to them by this Government which they, the smaller ship owners, were prepared to accept, but this was withdrawn after this Government had consulted the Unofficial Members of the Council.

The attitude of this Government appears to be as follows:—

(1) This Government states they were acting as agent of the Imperial Government whose instructions could not be varied one jot or tittle, but it stated that this Government would watch the requisition scheme and give the smaller ship owners its sympathetic consideration.

(2) This Government—as agent—either did not know or was not instructed to disclose the authority upon which the scheme was based.

(3) This Government anticipated and informed the shipowners that any money that accrued would go to the Imperial Government for prosecution of the war.

(4) In March 1919 when the scheme was wound up, this Government approached the Imperial Government and obtained permission to retain the profits derived from the scheme.

(5) This Government decided to utilize the windfall of $2,231,204.11 upon the construction of a Hotel and flats in Kowloon and extension of educational facilities among the various classes of the Community.

(6) After the "Wollwra" action was started this Government negotiated in an apparently sympathetic manner with the ship owners and a tentative proposal was made and acceptable but withdrawn as already mentioned.

(7) In 1920 the Indemnity Act was passed by the Imperial Government.

(8) This Government seeks to pass an Indemnity Ordinance, not in effect, to legalize war measures, but to prevent the smaller ship owners from seeking a judgment of the Court which would entail the loss by this Government of a handsome cashsum from the Imperial Government.

Putting aside all questions of right or wrong, it would seem equitable for this Government to make some compensation other than sympathy to the shipowners for the losses they suffered which enable this Colony to receive a cashsum of upwards of two and a quarter million dollars.

SPORT.

LAWN TENNIS.

PROPOSED INTERPORT.

Hongkong has sent an invitation to the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association to send a team here in the autumn to play a series of Interport matches.

If Shanghai accepts the invitation, and there can be little doubt of the sporting spirit of the Northern Settlement, Hongkong's tennis enthusiasts are promised a rare treat and will have their wish gratified, of seeing how our champion Ng Sze Kwong, the Hancock brothers and the other local stars, figure in real action with the champions of the neighbouring port.

It will be the first organised Interport contest we have had here for a long time, and is sure to give sports in Hongkong a big lift up, high as its standard in all branches already is. And might it not be the forerunner of an annual or bi-annual tennis fixture, as is the case with bowls and cricket? We have had bowls, cricket and swimming Interports here, and now tennis, what about "football" and "rugger"?

Surely, they are as popular here as any of the other branches of sport. There are doubtless many who are eagerly waiting for the Hongkong Football Association to make a move. Perhaps the Hongkong Baseball Club might also think of going farther afield than Canton and arrange something, and then life in Hongkong will be worth while after all—in spite of the Registration of Persons' Bill.

EDUCATION BOARD.

TRAINING OF CHINESE TEACHERS.

The Education Board met yesterday under the Chairmanship of the Director of Education, Hon. Mr. E. A. Irving. Those present were the Hon. Mr. A. Silva Netto, Mr. A. R. Cavalier, Mr. W. T. U. Ramjain, and Y. P. Law (Secretary).

The meeting was featured by a lengthy discussion relative to the training of Chinese teachers.

The Chairman in opening the discussion made reference to the Technical Institute where many of the masters had been trained. He asked the Board to advise him as to the training at the Institute. Mr. Handyside, the normal master there, had reported that he was not satisfied with the facilities for practical teaching and the teaching given. The question was whether it was possible to give the teachers proper training in class teaching at all and if it was not possible would not the Board be justified in cutting out this teaching from the curriculum leaving the actual training in teaching before a class to be undertaken by the masters of the schools.

Mr. Handyside, who was present at the request of the Chairman explained that in the past each student had attended the Institute of two hours instruction twice a week, but did not do anything but theoretical work until the third year when he assisted in preparing a lesson, taught it and was criticised. For the first year he managed to get pupils from the lower classes of Queen's College for the students to teach but there was difficulty in obtaining that support and this year a third year man had taught the other students. If there was a guarantee that a certain amount of practical work was being done it might be possible to drop the practical teaching. They had this instruction at the Institute to improve the way the students were teaching in the schools. Some good has been done although he did not claim that the experiment had been a success.

Mr. Ralph then read proposals for reorganising this teaching. Three periods for teaching, two hours a week, phonetic, two hours and English composition and literature two hours. Regarding practical teaching Mr. Ralph suggested that a class of school boys should be formed who would be taught English by the students.

Mr. Mackintosh remarked that it seemed absurd to him to go on with this normal teaching at the Technical Institute. The University was turning out teachers trained at the expense of the Government. They had had four years' training and the Government at the moment was able to employ them. He did not know for how many years the Government would be able to do so. They had got to make up their minds one day how many foreign and Chinese were going to be employed in the schools. If they were going to train Chinese schoolmasters they had to find employment for them.

"I thought," he continued, "this Technical Institute was dead long ago. It is training teachers who will be able to sell their training at a cheaper rate than the graduate. The graduate does demand a bigger salary and your technically trained student is able to undersell him." Mr. Mackintosh proceeded to support the Chairman's suggestion that there should be no class teaching at the Technical Institute, because in a few years these teachers would be displaced by highly-trained teachers.

In the meantime it was the obvious duty of headmasters to give the students that teaching. "Headmasters do very little teaching, themselves. It is remarkable what an easy time they seem to have—to a layman like myself who goes round inspecting once a year." He was prepared to press for the disappearance of the whole of the Technical Institute but would be satisfied if he could persuade the Board to recommend that these so-called classes be done away with. This work should be left to the University.

The Chairman expressed the opinion that there was no prospect for many years of there being competition between education graduates of the University and these untrained teachers. At present the University's output of graduate teachers was three and it would be ten or fifteen years before there was any considerable number of graduate teachers.

Mr. Mackintosh said he was anxious to pin the Chairman down to a figure. Mr. Irving said he would say fifty years. The question really before the Board was whether part of the training should be done at the Technical Institute or at the school at which the student teacher was attached. The idea of dropping the "value" work of the Technical Institute was out of the question. He proposed that in the opinion of the Board it was undesirable that the practical training of teachers should be attempted at the Technical Institute but that instruction in practical teaching should be left to the headmasters of the students' schools to arrange for.

Mr. Mackintosh seconded and the resolution was carried.

POLICE NEWS.

A Chinese seaman living on the first floor of No. 25, Square Street, had $368 worth of jewellery, money and clothing stolen from his flat last night. He thinks the burglar gained the verandah by climbing the scaffolding, which was erected outside the house for some repair work, and entered the flat by a verandah door which was left open.

Money and clothing worth $250 and three pieces of jewellery the value of which is not known, was stolen from the first floor of No. 182, Hollywood Road last night. The victim of the burglary is a Chinese woman.

Cheung Kai wah, the accountant of the Iling Loong Import and Export Co., of No. 294, Des Vaux Road Central has absconded with $5,200 which had been entrusted to him yesterday to pay some bills, reports the master of the shop.

SWATOW DISASTER.

LOCAL RELIEF EFFORTS.

WHAT IS BEING DONE.

Reuter under date August 9 says:—The bodies of 28,000 victims of the Swatow disaster have been recovered.

A SHANGHAI STORY.

Reuter's Shanghai correspondent writes:—It is only now possible to give some idea of the catastrophe at Swatow. The tidal wave which was formed as a result of the typhoon carried everything before it. Ships piled their anchors and were carried bodily a mile away and planted on land or mud. One motorboat was carried five miles ashore. One junk was driven right through the Asiatic Petroleum Company's oil tank. The scene of ruin in the town is indescribable. No building has withstood the raging gale which twisted iron girders as if they were wisps of straw. The harbour is choked with corpses the stench wherefrom accentuated by the rotting rice and beancake, is overpowering.

S. S. "SONG MA" SAFE.

The new boat of Lapique & Co S. S. "Song Ma", was among the vessels anchored at Swatow during last week's typhoon. Through the courtesy of Messrs. Jardine Matheson, the Hongkong Office was notified by wireless that the captain reported no damage. More particular were received yesterday, to the effect that the vessel arrived at Swatow on the morning of the typhoon and in the absence of any available pilot, had to cross the bar without outside help, which she successfully did in spite of her draught being 21'6". She took her moorings in the river and escaped the blow of the typhoon practically undamaged. She is now discharging her cargo of Hongkong coal, after which she will sail for this port.

THE CHINESE EFFORT.

A meeting of the Tung Wah Hospital committee was held at the hospital at 7 p.m. yesterday, to discuss means of raising money to relieve the destitute and famine stricken people of Swatow.

It was decided besides opening a public subscription list, to inaugurate a street collection of small contributions from the working classes, under the principle that every little bit goes a long way.

At the meeting itself, about $11,000 was subscribed by those present, Sir Robert Ho Tung opening the list with a donation of $5,000, and the Chairman, Mr. Lo Chung kui and the other members of the committee all subscribed various sums ranging from $500 to $1,000.

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce has subscribed $10,000 to the Famine Relief Fund, independent of another $35,000 which was donated by the various firms in Chinese.

Several other districts have also subscribed several thousands of dollars, the exact figure is not yet ascertainable.

The Relief Fund committee acknowledge with thanks the Hongkong Government's contribution of 100 bags of white rice, 132 bags and baskets of biscuits, and four bags of bread.

HONGKONG GOVERNMENT'S AID.

The Hongkong Government despatched a further 500 bags of rice to-day and another 500 will be sent to-morrow.

The Colonial Secretariat has forwarded to us the following copies of a letter dated August 7 and a wireless message dated August 8 from H.B.M. Consul at Swatow (Mr. H. King):—"Sir—I have the honour to inform you that the first consignment of foodstuffs contributed by the Hongkong Government for the relief of destitute sufferers from the recent typhoon which has wrought such havoc at Swatow and in the surrounding districts was duly received ex. s.s. 'Hailong' on the 6th instant.

I immediately made arrangements, through the local Chinese officials, for its proper distribution by the Typhoon Relief Committee, a body consisting of Chinese official and prominent mercantile representatives, with foreign supervision over the actual delivery of the rice as it is required, from the Chinese Maritime Customs Examination Shed, where it is stored for the present.

The general situation, I am glad to say, is improving, and the Chinese are doing their best to cope with the tremendous task of evolving some sort of order out of the chaos which exists on the Khat side of the harbour. The two most pressing needs, namely, fresh water and food, seem, however,

H. M. S. "RENOVN."

HER ULTIMATE FATE.

After the enormous amount of steaming she has done during the past three years the "Renown" probably stands in need of an extensive overhaul, though from all accounts her machinery shows little sign of stress, says the Naval and Military Record. In the ordinary course of events she would go into Dockyard for a thorough refit, but in view of the shortage of funds this will be postponed. For the same reason the plan of modifying her bulge and strengthening her armour protection as was done in the case of her sister ship "Repulse" has been shelved, and she will now be placed in reserve. Laid down at the Fairfield yard in January, 1915, the "Renown" was built with great rapidity and came into service about 20 months later. At the request of Lord Jellicoe she and her sister ship were temporarily withdrawn from the Grand Fleet to have their protection improved. Although built more lightly than our other capital ships, these two vessels stood the strain of war service remarkably well, the only criticism passed upon them being that their guns were too powerful for their scantlings. As steamers they have been uniformly successful.

Designed nominally for 110,000 s.h.p. and a speed of 30 knots, both have repeatedly exceeded these figures in service. On trial at normal load the "Renown" worked up to 126,300 s.h.p. and 32.68 knots, a performance that made her the fastest capital ship afloat, and one which so far as is known, has not yet been equalled, even by the "Hood." It is to be hoped that the absence of so fine a ship from the active fleet will not be of long duration. The cost of reconstructing her on the lines of the "Repulse" would be in the neighbourhood of £800,000, but provided the work were spread over a period of two or three years, it would not constitute an unduly heavy burden on the Navy Estimates. Until it is executed our Battle-cruiser Squadron will be limited to two ships, the "Hood" and "Repulse" a number which is obviously too small to permit of the carrying out of tactical evolutions on an adequate scale.

to have been met to some extent. As there appears to be a sufficiency of rice in the place for present needs, I would suggest that no more is sent by the Hongkong Government unless, and until, I notify you that the necessity for doing so has re-arisen.

I have been requested to convey to you the warmest thanks of the Chinese officials, speaking on behalf of the local Chinese community, for the generous assistance and offers of help given by the Hongkong Government in their hour of need. I can assure you that the action of the Hongkong Government has been genuinely and deeply appreciated.

WIRELESS MESSAGE.

From H. B. M. Consul, Swatow. To Colonial Secretary, Hongkong. Date 8th August, 1922.

My letter of 7th. Relief committee very grateful for as much rice as you can see way to sending as attempts now being made to relieve those towns in districts which have suffered most, no other food stuffs required, no demand at present for construction materials.

TWO-LEGGED SNAKE.

WONDERFUL REPTILE FOUND IN JAPAN.

While naturalists are discussing the origin of China's dragon, the capture of something of the sort at the summer resort of Karuzawa, Japan, may assist them. The creature is said to have been a two legged, horned snake, and referring to it the Japan Advertiser says:—"From description it sounds as if it was a cross between an ordinary snake and a Rocky Mountain billygoat. It is 5 feet 9 inches long and at the largest 5 inches in circumference. It has two legs about 18 inches from the tip of the tail. Nor is that all. A horn protrudes above each eye. As children were passing through the grass and bamboo at Pulpit Rock the snake stood erect and darted its fangs at them. Men came to the rescue, killed it and have spent most of the time since repenting for not capturing such a rare specimen alive. The reptile is now preserved in alcohol at a shop on the 'Machi' and the people here say that nothing like it has ever been seen before in Japan. From the description your correspondent is inclined to believe that no such creature has ever been seen elsewhere. Persons who read this may be inclined to believe that it has never been seen at Karuzawa. This story, however, comes from an eye witness, who, by the way, is a good American prohibitionist."

Writing on the subject of the discovery an American correspondent of the N.C. Daily News says—"I have seen a good many curious things in the

IDENTITY DISC WILL

VISIBLE UNDER A MAGNIFYING GLASS.

A will written in tiny letters on the back of a Royal Navy identification disc has been admitted to probate.

The disc belonged to William Henry Thorn Skinner, a plumber, of H.M.S. "Indefatigable," who was lost with that ship at the Battle of Jutland on May 31, 1916.

When the disc was being cleaned the writing on the back, which is quite clear under a magnifying glass, was noticed.

It reads:—
Feb. 1, 1916.—Everything I possess and all moneys, property due to me by wills, wages, bank, or any other sources, I bequeath to my darling wife, Alice Maed Skinner, signed, this day 1st Feb., 1916, H. M. S. "Indefatigable," Wm. H. T. Skinner. Witnessed by W. H. Taylor, H. J. Way. The total value of the property under the will is £258.

course of my rambles but a snake which stands upon its hind legs has not so far been numbered among them and the first impression was that it must have been some fancy born of the 35th drink or thereabouts. On glancing further down your article, however, I see that the witness was a prohibitionist, and it seems to me that if this is the effect that prohibition is going to have on people, well, the sooner the 18th Amendment is put into the discard the better."

CHINESE NOVELS.

MODERN BEST SELLERS.

If evidence is needed that China is, as has been claimed until the phrase is threadbare, a land of sharp contrasts, it may be gathered in a comparison of the extremes of Chinese literature, says a contributor to the China Press.

To cite the classics as examples of the best and purest Chinese literature is too obvious. For purposes of comparative modern Chinese novel, about which there is very little heard, so all obscuring in the shadow of greatness thrown by the classics with their concomitant of antiquity and all it connotes in respect and reverence.

THE STORY OF ZAH.

There is, for instance, the story of Zah Tow Chee, alias King Noah Yuen, as the tale of the boy who was born with a piece of jade in his mouth. It is a love story of the purest type and describes the home life of a family of Manchurian heritage. The son, born with jade in his mouth, when he grows to manhood, falls in love with a cousin. His parents oppose the match for they believe she is of weak character and not a good housewife. They suggest for his wife another cousin who, as a child, was presented with a gold lock by a monk.

The son falls ill and during his sickness his parents marry him to the cousin of their choice. When he recovers he learns not only that he is married to the girl he does not love, but that his own beloved has died.

He bears his sorrow with typical Chinese resignation, meanwhile studying for his degree. When his wife presents him with a son, and he passes his examination, he hopes for his future that he has repaid all obligations to his family.

THESE ARE DIFFERENT.

The tremendous variance in Oriental and Occidental manners, morals and customs of necessity, is responsible for a vast difference in type of literature produced by the West and by the East. The Chinese, certainly, have more play for their imaginations, for they are not hampered by conventions or prohibitions and marriage laws that allow no man intoxicating drink and provide for only one conjugal partner until the law or death intervenes by request or accident.

The Chinese writer of best sellers can safely and comfortably allow his hero to espouse two wives. However this is all perfectly proper and this sort of novel is allowed in the very best homes. Besides a well defined plot, there are in the best Chinese novels, passages of exquisite beauty. True there is an appalling lack of luxuriance of word images. According to authorities, the phrases that the writers particularly fancy for descriptive passages are used over and over again. This does not detract from their pristine beauty, however. Nor does it alter the fact that the Chinese sentimental novel is replete with refreshing draughts of the super-imagination of the writers. In what American novel would one find a situation paralleling this one for instance!

A young man, already engaged, is brought by a young woman, for some reason or other disguised as a youth, to marry her. He is an honest young man so he tells her he is already booked up. This trivial fact does not discourage the maiden who immediately suggests herself as a candidate for the position of Number 2 wife. The act is considered the supreme height of nobility. The young hero in the Chinese sentimental novel does not yearn, as the American Success magazine tell it, to be a $25,000 a year man, with a wife, a home and a steady income, and may be a Ford, with a partnership in his firm as the glowing light held aloft by Ambition. Not his supreme ambition is to become a Chang Yuen. In other words, he wants to be set on the list of those who have successfully passed their examinations.

SOHO BECOMING SURBITON.

OLD ATMOSPHERE GONE.

"The rapacious middle classes have been at it again. They are always at it. As soon as a good thing is discovered the middle classes come along and seize it for their own. Their latest prize is 'Soho' writes Thomas Burke in Now and Then—the attractive periodical put out by Jonathan Cape.

"There was a time when Greek Street, Frith Street, Dean Street and Old Compton Street were happy to serve the hard-up journalist, the small-part actor and the chorus lady. You could then ramble round its blithe byways, and carefully choose your café, and make expropriations. Every month or so a new place was opened; sometimes to close down hurriedly, sometimes to carry on quietly, sometimes to rise, on the stepping-stone of itself, to higher things. Then, each café had its patron and patronne. If you had dined there once, M'sieu or Madame at the door, had a smile and a bow for you the second time; and the third time the waiter remembered whether you took the fish or the omelette. They were pleased to see you, and departed you with graceful wishes to the re-seeing."

"Now, you are not wanted. You cannot wander round and drift in. The thing has become regulated; a function, and tables are booked. Tables are booked! The soldiers on leave discovered Soho, and brought their women to it from Crouch End and Blackheath and Mutton-in-the-March. Business began to boom. Every dining hour became a rush-hour. Proprietors and waiters had no words for guests new or old. If there was no table for the old guest, he must go elsewhere. Where? They were busy, and there was good money in the house. Since the war these conditions have been maintained and developed. Soho is a 'resort' of the comfortable solid people; and it is steadily going down."

"The service is slap-dash and the food poor. The hard-up journalist and the chorus lady wanted value for their one-and-sixpence. They paid attention to what they ate and drank, for often it was the only meal of the day. But Soho knows that its present clientele doesn't care. Dining in Soho is the idea, and they eat the indifferent food, and drink the spirituous and expensive wine, and pay the excessive bill, without a murmur. And if they don't come again, Soho doesn't care. There are always the others. Soho knows the truth of the old adage—there's one born every minute."

"Instead of the good value of the shilling lunch and the one-and-sixpenny dinner, we have the badly-served, carelessly cooked dinner at four and five shillings; and instead of the rough but decent ordinaire, we have an untrustworthy wine-list of grocer's red and white wines, accorded, and wearing false labels. Some day Soho will discover that this doesn't pay and will try to get back to the old methods and prices. They may do that; but they will never recapture the old spirit. Once that is tampered with, it can never be adjusted. You may alter your ways, and repent and repent, but, if you tarnish the soul you no more recover its freshness than you can recover yesterday."

"And that's what Soho has done. It has laid itself out to attract the Corner House custom, and it has succeeded. It is a back number. The old atmosphere is gone, and to dine in Soho to day is to dine in suburbia among the folk of Surbiton, who have come there to see the artists who no longer go there. The character of the service is as impersonal as that of a tea-shop."

SPIRIT-WORLD "DETECTIVES."

NEW IDEA FOR TRACKING CRIMINALS.

That murderers and other criminals can be discovered by spiritualism was asserted at the conference of the Spiritualists' National Union at Queen's Hall, London, during a discussion on "Psychic Science in its Relationship to the Detection and Repression of Crime."

A paper was read by Dr. Abraham Wallace, M.D., of Harley-street. Feeling he said, that the time was ripe, he resolved with anxiety to seize the opportunity to deal with the relation of psychical and metaphysical science to the detection and repression of crime. Sir A. Conan Doyle was asked recently in America, "Can you find out those who commit murder?" to which he gave an evasive reply, "Had I been asked that question," said Dr. Wallace, "I should have made a direct answer in the affirmative."

Proceeding to deal with various murders that had been enacted in recent years, and experiments carried out in connection with them by himself, Dr. Wallace said he had abstained from doing anything in this line of investigation for some years till a few days after a recent murder, when he had a short sitting with a sensitive with whom he was carrying out interesting experiments on other lines. Some statements were then made which had already been confirmed, and had he been able to obtain an article belonging to the murdered man he was positive that he could have been in possession of all the important details. The Welsh murders by Harold Jones were also alluded to by Dr. Wallace, who proceeded:

"As a result of my experiments and observations I am now disposed to believe that in a properly constituted circle with one or two fully developed sensitives, all meeting with one accord to discover the truth and to repress evil, every murder might be discovered, and but for the probable sequel of capital punishment the information obtained could and ought to be utilized."

"Capital punishment," he went on to say, was an obstacle in the way of employing the methods of psychical and metaphysical science in criminology. As a believer in their spiritualistic philosophy, and as a student of the ancient wisdom found in all great religions, he was one of those who advocated the abolition of the death penalty, and felt that its retention in the Statute Book was contrary to the spirit of true Christianity. He was desirous of seeing their legal authorities keep pace with advancing psychic knowledge, and that they should be willing to adopt their methods, and even begin to utilize their well-developed sensitivities to assist in the detection of both heinous and minor crimes. Instead however, of realizing that in psychic and metaphysical science there were great possibilities in regard to the discovery of crime, their police authorities, unfortunately, under an ancient and absurd law, prosecuted their mediums in nearly all parts of the country.

BAR ETIQUETTE

It is an old tradition that apparent efforts at advertisement by barristers should be discouraged by the authorities of their profession, but the Bar Council has just passed for the first time a resolution to the effect that it is contrary to the etiquette of the Bar for a practising barrister to give an interview to a representative of the Press on any matter in which he has been or is engaged as counsel. The cause of this resolution was the recent appearance in a newspaper of an article purporting to be written by a well-known K.C. It was not, in fact, written by him but the statement published appeared to have been gleaned from him in the course of an interview and that he had acted quite unwittingly in the matter. It will be noticed that the gravamen of the charge is that he dealt with a case in which he had himself been engaged. On the other hand, it does not appear from the resolution of the Bar Council that the same objection applies to counsel when discussing any case in which he was not professionally engaged. As a matter of fact, the Press and the public are frequently indebted for useful and reliable information on points of law of general interest to the views expressed by members of the Bar, whether in the form of correspondence or of articles in the columns of the Press. As long as the matter is divested of the personal element it is harmless to the profession and desirable for the public.

He scorned love, to marry for money and there was THE DEVIL TO PAY.

THE "TENERIFFA."

INTERESTING MOTOR SHIP IN THE EAST.

One of the most modern and best equipped cargo ships afloat lately passed through Singapore—the motor vessel "Teneriffa," of the Norwegian, Africa and Australia line.

The "Teneriffa" is 444 ft. long, 55 ft. broad, and 38 ft. in depth, with a gross tonnage of 7,072 and net tonnage 4,460. She boasts five holds and five hatches, has 13 electric winches, two derricks, one of which can lift 10 and the other 20 tons of ship's gear and is equipped with two oil-burning six-cylinder Diesel engines of 1,700 h.p. each, to turn her dynamos. She consumes 10½ tons of oil in 24 hours when in action but as she was stocked at Aden with sufficient fuel to last for six months there is no occasion for worry lest the supply should give out.

One of the distinguishing points of the "Teneriffa" is her funnel, an embellishment not seen before on motor vessels. Besides improving the appearance of the ship and supplying an appropriate place for the line's emblem it serves a practical purpose in carrying off the exhaust from the engines and incidentally warms a large tank of water enclosed within it thus supplying continuous hot water for officers' and men's baths. Electricity, generated by dynamos run by the Diesel engines, is the motive power of the craft exclusively, except that steam is used for keeping the oil thin in cold weather and for heating the boat. This is the only ship of its type at present and the largest motor vessel in Norway, but another is being completed and four more will soon be turned out.

Her average speed is from 12½ to 12½ knots. She completed the trip from Antwerp to Singapore in 37 days. Her cargo capacity in grain is 568,000 cubic feet and in cubic bales 521,000. She has gone to Shanghai and Yokohama thence proceeding to Kobe, after which it is uncertain whether her destination will be Java or Australia.

TIRE-OUT WOMEN.

What they Need to Restore Vitality.

The woman who feels tired out who aches all over when she rises in the morning, who feels depressed most of her time, needs in the help that Dr. Williams' pink pills can give her—new rich blood, and stronger nerves. The number of disorders caused by this blood is amazing, and most women are careless about the condition of their blood. The pink pills are quick-acting, and they become irritable; they worry over trifles, and do not obtain refreshing sleep. There may be stomach trouble and headaches. This is the condition that calls for Dr. Williams' pink pills, the blood-making and never-failing tonic.

Give Dr. Williams' pink pills a trial, and the first sign of new life will soon be noticed by your increased vitality. You will be hungry at meal time. As your blood becomes enriched, it feeds and soothes the irritated nerves, sleep becomes sound and more refreshing your worries diminish and your work seems lighter.

If you suffer from any of the above symptoms begin to get well by starting Dr. Williams' pink pills at once. Of Dr. Williams' pink pills a row of 24 pills, or direct from the D. Williams Medicine Co., 14 School-street, Boston, at $1.50 per bottle $2.50 for 6 bottles, post free. For men and women too.

2 MOTHERS, 2 WIVES.

EX SOLDIER'S PREDICAMENT.

An Italian soldier made deaf and dumb by shell shock in the war has been claimed by two mothers and a wife after he had married another woman.

Under the name of Ferraro he was cared for at a Turin hospital and claimed by a wealthy widow of that name as her son. She took him from the hospital and shortly after, despite his infirmities, he married a girl named Stampoi.

A few days later another woman ran up to the deaf mute in the street and said, "My dear son, at last I have found you!" She is a Signora Romanini of Santa Fiore. To support her claim to be the mother of the shell-shocked soldier she called on her daughter-in-law to identify her long-missing husband. So now he has two wives as well as two mothers, and he has asked in writing to be allowed to go back to hospital until he recovers sufficiently to recall his identity.

A WORD TO WOMEN.

Every woman's health is largely dependent upon the condition of her blood. Many women suffer from head ache, pain in the back, and constant feeling of weakness, palpitating, shortness of breath, and nervousness. If you are any of these symptoms, do not despair of getting better, but begin now to day, to build up your blood with Dr. Williams' pink pills. The new rich blood made by these pills quickly restores health, and there is a new joy in life. Read the article, "Tired-Out Women," on this page.

"OUTWORN THEOLOGY."

SPIRITUALISM IN LONDON.

The twentieth annual conference of the Spiritualists' National Union, which has its headquarters in Huddersfield, was opened at Queen's Hall in mail week, Mr. George F. Berry presiding over some 200 delegates from various parts of England.

Mr. Boddington, on behalf of the London District Council, which, he said, now represented twenty-eight churches, extended a cordial welcome to the delegates. Since the last international conference held in London in the nineties, thirty new societies he said, had been enrolled in the London area. They had, therefore, every reason to be proud of the development of their movement in London. The annual report of the council stated that during the year sixty-six additional churches had affiliated with the union, bringing the total to 3,032, and these represented 1,500 paying members. An interim report submitted by Mr. E. W. Oaten vice president showed that the gain in membership during the year was 1,196. Alluding to disputes which the council had had to deal with, the report stated:

This has brought us face to face with another problem—namely, how must we deal with the churches who refuse to accept the arbitration of the S.N.U. or the discipline that organization necessarily have. I am of the opinion that the only effective way can be expulsion. Two churches have had to be so dealt with during this last six months. The whole question is being seriously considered by the Council. Their decisions will be reported to the District Councils, whose co-operation will be sought in carrying them into effect.

In his presidential address Mr. Berry said that viewed from one aspect, there was a sure indication that phenomena and mediums were at last invading and breaking down religious opposition, and must ultimately modify the orthodox theology just as surely as their phenomena had invaded and effected modification in the scientific and philosophic thought of modern times, a matter of which they might justly be proud. But let them not forget the danger lurking in old ecclesiastical systems. They must watch carefully all hints thrown out which seemed to carry a threat foregleams of attempts to capture their spiritualism and harness it to the chariot wheels of an outworn theology.

AN ANGEL OF PEACE.

Dr. George B. Warr, President of the National Union in the United States, delivered an address on "Do Spiritualism Contain the Essentials for a World Religion?" at a morning session recently. He said that Spiritualism proclaimed death as an endless progression, while the door was never closed to any soul in time or eternity. No vital principle of religion was wanting in Spiritualism, understood and wisely applied and righteously lived in daily life. What they sought was agreement upon the vital principles of Spiritualism, unity in essentials, and freedom of belief in matters of minor importance.

Chevalier Clement de St. Marc, speaking at the afternoon session, claimed that Spiritualism led to the ethical improvement of mankind. In international relationships Spiritualism had come to be world as an angel of peace.

Mr. Berry, presiding at the evening session, said he was sorry there was a vacant chair on the platform. That was for Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who was to have reached this country from the American Continent, but who, unfortunately, had not arrived in London.

Dr. Warr said that some people argued that God had dropped a curtain between this world and the other, but there were, fortunately, many men who had not yet got over their boyhood habit of taking a peep at the circus, even if they had to do so by lifting the canvas and getting beneath it. Did God tell men where gold was to be found, where coal was under the ground, or where diamonds were to be discovered? Men had had to find those things out for themselves, and the same thing applied to Spiritualist stances.

Mr. Cadwallader (U.S.A.) said that Spiritualists were God's chosen people, and the trustees of a most wonderful gift.

TEETHING CHILDREN.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then eat or drink to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. Even the most severe and dangerous cases are quickly cured by it. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

HARLEY STREET

PROS AND CONS OF A DOCTOR'S CHARGES.

The animated correspondence which has been proceeding in London upon Harley Street physicians and surgeons and their fees has produced a great variety of views. Mr. N. Bishop Jarman, in the following letter to The Times, puts the standpoint of the specialists with humour and force:

There is a distinctly humorous side to the correspondence on "Harley street." Many of our contributors take up the attitude of the small boy who desires both to have his cake and eat it. They demand that we, consultants, should live in a region convenient to themselves, occupy costly houses, provide first-rate equipment and perfect service, and yet when they have to pay for these same necessities to our work they, or some of them, demur at the necessary cost thereat.

Few know the costs of Harley-street save those who occupy its fine houses, and few recognize that the overhead charges of these fine houses require earnings and expenditure of a hand some income by us consultants before we can farthing can come to us for our personal use.

The average citizen demands "Harley street." The most learned of us and the most skilful would be considered small beer if we offered our services from the quiet obscurity of some back street; we must needs be ensconced in suitable and substantial elegance. I hesitate to suggest that these dignities add to our utility, but it is certain that the absence of them would detract from it. This demand extends to other things besides houses. In truth, the psychology of to-day has not moved at all from the days of Naaman the Syrian; there is the same demand that with skill there should be combined impressiveness, but, unlike Naaman, some folk of to-day when recovered of their leprosy feel no urge within them to adopt his words:

"Now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing of thy servant."

NOT LIKE NAAMAN.

A few of your correspondents show an indecent pride in their cunning in taking themselves and their ailments to foreign lands for their cure at what they consider economic rates. They forget that such action as this, were it common, would bring its punishment only too speedily, for there would soon be no skilled surgeon at their command at home when swift fate plunged them into Cammerian darkness or death trod closely upon their heels.

But there is another side to this question; one which was broached in recent correspondence in your columns. Of the remuneration of hospital doctors. Most of us consultants spend the bulk or more of our time giving gratuitous service at the hospital to which we are attached. As a necessary corollary of such an arrangement we needs must meet all our heavy charges of housing, equipment, and living in the other part of our time. Those who come to us privately must needs pay for the work which we do at other times in the hospitals. It is inevitable. If this arrangement is found to be inequitable, the remedy is found to be inequitable, the complainant must support the policy of the British Medical Association, which seeks to secure that there should be remuneration for the services of the hospital doctors who attend upon patients who are not indigent but who pay in part or whole for the attention they receive at the hospitals. The Continental surgeon, whose moderate fees are commended, is in that position; he is paid for the work he does in hospital and does not need to put the costs of that service upon the shoulders of his private clients. There is no doubt about the greater fairness of the dual apportionment of the costs of medical treatment to each class of recipient; and there is also the manifest advantage that the younger consultants, whose work is almost confined to the hospitals, are able to obtain a reasonable living at an earlier age, so that the necessity for the possession of private means does not act as a limitation upon the entry of capable men into the ranks of the consultant.

A New York conductor of opera.

Wireless persists in producing wonders. This melody was composed at sea by Friml and wirelessly to New York for Mary Eaton to sing.

The suppliers of this picture supply the letter-press, as follows:
Roosevelt Chao, son of a multi-millionaire merchant of Hongkong, wanted to marry Miss Mary Koehler, of Chicago, but as he was only twenty it was necessary to have Mrs. Bridget Sullivan, Public Administrator, appointed his guardian. The wedding followed, with the consent of the girl's mother. Chao was a student at the University of Chicago.

E. E. Wood, of Chicago, with A. H. Retler, of Washington, holding the portrait of President Harding, made on 24-karat gold, which has been presented to Mrs. Harding. The photo portrait is produced by what is known as the ractotone process, does not lose colour and may be easily washed with soap and water.

LONDON REPARATIONS CONFERENCE.

LONDON, August 9th.
The first feeling of pessimism as regards the Downing Street Conference is apparent in consequence of the considerable divergencies of opinion which have revealed themselves in the course of the Export Committee's examination of M. Poincaré's proposals. Reuter says the situation this morning seems very uncertain but everybody is doing their best to avoid anything in the nature of a breakdown. In the meantime the experts are putting away at the consideration of a report for presentation to the main Conference. French quarters in London, however, anticipate that Great Britain will reject M. Poincaré's plan as a whole. Mr. Lloyd George visited M. Poincaré early this morning and conferred long with him, with a view to reconciling their standpoints. Subsequently, he left Claridge's accompanied by M. Théunis, one of the Belgian Representatives.

Paris, August 9th.
The newspapers which yesterday enthused over M. Poincaré's presentation of the French views, at the opening of the conference, are no less dissatisfied today with the proceedings of the Export Committee. They complain of excessive British consideration to Germany, to the detriment of France.

On the contrary, this is strenuously denied in British official circles in London, where it is pointed out that the question is not one of the principle of reparation, but the manner of obtaining the same. Fear is expressed that some of the measures proposed by the Allies will result in the destruction of all prospect of payment.

The Italians and Belgians are now active in the present negotiations, as they are striving to present a solution commonly acceptable. It is pointed out, however, that the first and most important matter is settling the question of a moratorium.

THE GORDON BENNETT RACE.

LONDON, August 9th.
The following is the provisional result of the Gordon-Bennett balloon race. The Frenchman, Benneville, was first, with the balloon, "Reboul," second, and the Belgian, Libonville, third.

DISASTER TO BRITISH STEAMER.

LONDON, August 9th.
Grave fears are entertained as to the fate of the British steamer "Zola," which was reported as sinking fast on Monday night one hundred and fifty miles off the Tyne, after striking an obstruction.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

RUSSIA, August 9th.
The Moscow High Court has passed the death sentence on thirteen of the principal Social Revolutionaries, temporarily delaying the execution which, however, will be expedited unless the Social Revolutionary Party discontinue their campaign of violence and espionage against the Soviets.

U.S.A. RAILWAY STRIKE.

BERLIN, August 9th.
Advices from Frankfurt state that the International Miners' Congress has passed a resolution sympathizing with the striking miners in the United States and recommending the various national miners' organizations to subscribe £10,000 for their American comrades.

CHINA'S PARLIAMENT.

PEKING, August 9th.
At a meeting of the House of Representatives, three hundred and ten members were present. The Senate was without a quorum.

LI YUAN HUNG'S RESIGNATION SENT BACK.

PEKING, August 9th.
The House of Representatives resolved that the house could not legally deal with President Li Yuan Hung's resignation and decided to send it back.

JAPANESE ARMY RETIREMENT.

SHANGHAI, August 9th.
Reuter's Tokyo correspondent states that the Minister of War announces that army retirement during the next few years will be 500,000, and involves the reduction of 1,500 officers, 50,000 men and 13,000 horses, being in effect a reduction by five divisions. The conscription period will be reduced by three months.

BANQUE INDUSTRIELLE IRREGULARITIES.

PARIS, August 9th.
Following upon a further report by the experts on irregularities in the payment of share subscriptions of the Banque Industrielle de Chine, the examining Magistrate sent for M. Pernette and further questioned him. M. Pernette declared his innocence, which he said would be recognized later, when the bank was reconstituted. Several officials of the bank who were also examined, contended themselves with saying they had placed entire confidence in M. André Berthelot.
